

Dr. Regina Haney

Tributes from the NACPA board of directors.

Dr. Regina Haney's vision and dedication over the past decade have shaped NACPA into the leading association for Church HR directors and all those with HR responsibilities. Her legacy is both substantial and enduring: the Certificate Program for emerging leaders, the Webinar and OnDemand series, expanded consultation services and vibrant convocations across the country. Through her remarkable ability to bring people together, Regina fostered seven thriving board committees and cultivated partnerships that broadened NACPA's influence and strengthened its outreach.

As a NACPA Board member and current NACPA President, I have learned by listening to and watching Regina what it is to be fearless (ask for those sponsorships), aim high (keep those memberships numbers growing), hold others accountable with firmness but kindness (have you completed your action item?), and have a fighting spirit to uphold NACPA's mission and values. Thank you Regina for being such an inspiration and great mentor. I will miss our collaborations, our talks and the laughs. You truly are a blessing.

Regina, Thank you for your tireless efforts in guiding NACPA. Under your phenomenal leadership, this incredible organization has been a tremendous blessing to (arch) dioceses, religious communities, and organizations. The wide variety of services, resources, and opportunities offered by NACAP have been invaluable to the membership. I am particularly grateful for the great faith that you have infused into your leadership. We are all better because of your faith and your example.

For ten years, Regina has led NACPA with unwavering faith, courage, and vision. Her passion for the Church and commitment to excellence have strengthened Human Resources as a true vocation—serving both clergy and lay faithful. What I once perceived as unyielding focus, I now understand as deep devotion. She is the epitome of living her vocation and calls us to do the same in service to the Church and one another.

Regina has been a remarkable friend, leader and mentor. I have truly valued the opportunity to serve alongside her on the NACPA Board, the Finance Committee and the Marketing and Membership Committee—as well as on the very first committee I joined, the OnDemand Committee. Throughout our time working together, Regina has inspired me to grow not only professionally but personally as well. Her wisdom, generosity and leadership
